THE CONQUERED BANNER.

Furl that banner! for 'tis weary;
Round its staff 'tis drooping dreary;
Furl it, fold it, it is best;
For there's not a man to wave it,
And there's not a soul to save it,
And there's not left one to lave it In the blood that heroes gave it;
And its foes now scorn and brave it;
Furl it, hide it, let it rest!

Take that banner down; 'tis tattered;
Broken is its staff and shattered,
And the valiant hosts are scattered,
Over whom it floated high. Oh! 'tis hard for us to fold it; Hard to think there's none to hold it Hard that those who once unrolled it Now must furl it with a sigh.

Furl that banner! furl it sadly Once six millions hailed it gladly,

Nand ten thousands, wildly, madly,

Swore it should forever wave. Swore that foemen's sword could never. Hearts like theirs entwined dissever. Till that flag should float forever O'er their freedom, or their grave.

Furlit! for the hands that grasped it, And the hearts that fondly clasped it. Cold and dead are lying low; And that banner, it is trailing, While around it sounds the wailing, Of its people in their woe-For, though conquered, they adore it, Love the cold, dead hands that bore it, Weep for those who fell before it; Pardon those who trailed and tore it; And, oh! wildly they deplore it, Now to furl and fold it so.

Furl that banner ! true tis gory, Yet, 'tis wreathed around with glory, And 'twill live in song and story— Though its folds are in the dust— For its fame, on brighest pages, Penned by poets and by sages, Shall go "sounding down the ages," Furl its folds though now we must.

Furl that banner! sanly! slowly! Treat it gently, it is holy,
For it droops above the dead. Touch it not, unfurl it never, Let it droop there, furled forever, For its people's hopes are dead.

THE PEACE PROCLAMATION.

BY SARAH J. C. WHITTLESEY. Thank God for the sunshine of gladness again, That golden's our Southland's blue dawning Thank God for the surcease of sorrow and pair That comes with the dawn of the morning.

All hail to the Bethlehem star that burns o'er The babe of sweet Peace, newly given! Good Shepherds and wise men rejoice as of yore, And worship the young child from heaven! God bless the grand Hero who stands between hate And harm to this new born to earth !-Who holds in abeyance the Herods of State; Thank God that the South gave birn birth!

It was not enough that my own sunny land Was rifled of wealth and of bloom, But tyrants would hold her with pitiless hand, Crushed, helpless and hopeless, in gloom, It was not enough that the prodigal son

Should say to his father, 'forgive;' But the brother must whimper and whine for the one Envied gift of the father-to live.

Thank God for the hand that hath broken the chains That fettered the suffering South-

That showered the dew o'er her desolate plains, And ended the war's long drought! All hail to the day-star that gladdens the earth,

With golden rays gilding the morrow! Thank God that the sweet sunny Louth gave him Who giveth her surcease from sorrow
